

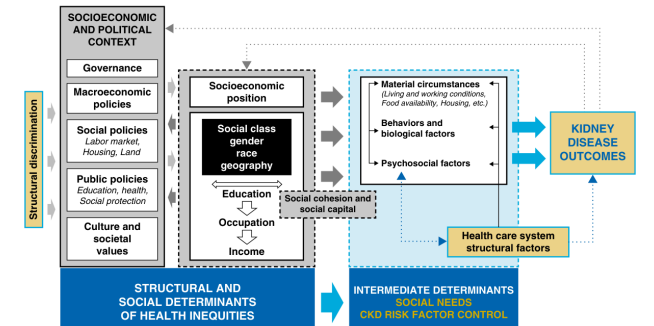

Fig. 81.1 Social determinants of health disparities framework. (From Hal YN. Social determinants of health: addressing unmet needs in nephrology. Am J Kidney Dis. 2018;72(4):582–591 and Solar O, Irwin A. A conceptual framework for action on the social determinants of health. WHO Report, page 6. 13 July 2010, Geneva, Switzerland 2010.)

Fig_81_1

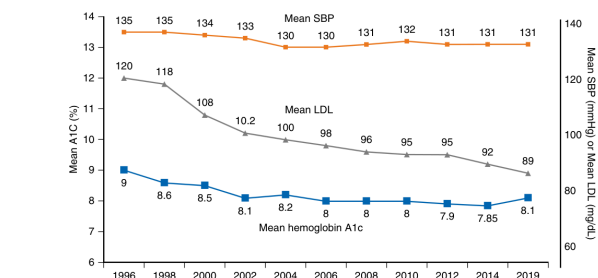

Fig. 81.2 Risk factor control among American Indians with diabetes mellitus within the U.S. Indian Health Service. (From Bullock A, Burrows NR, Narva AS, et al. Vital signs: decrease in incidence of diabetes-related end-stage renal disease among American Indians/Alaska Natives—United States, 1996–2013. MMWR Morb Mortal Wkly Rep. 2017;66(1):26–32.)

Fig_81_2

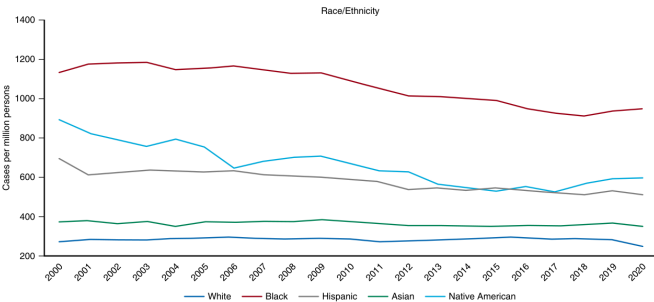

Fig. 81.3 Trends in age- and sex-adjusted incidence rate (per million/year) of end-stage kidney failure by race and ethnicity in the United States, 2000–2020. (From Johansen KL, Chertow GM, Gilbertson DT, et al. U.S. renal data system 2022 annual data report: epidemiology of kidney disease in the United States. Am J Kidney Dis. 2023;81(S1):A8–A11.)

Fig_81_3

Table 81.1 The “Bless Experience” of Patients with End-Stage Kidney Disease from Qualitative Studies in Diverse Communities
Social Category	Country	Context/Theme	Quotation
Rural-dwelling patient (Indigenous)	Australia	Maintenance dialysis Geographic isolation	“My community is 1000 km from Darwin. I’ve been on dialysis now for 3 years, and I’ve based here [Darwin] now.”
Rural-dwelling patient	Australia	Maintenance dialysis Geographic isolation Lack of safe and sustainable resources	“We’ve got a patient... that we trained on peritoneal dialysis, but he’s currently living in Brisbane with his daughter because we cannot get supplies to him.” [nephrologist]
Rural-dwelling patient	New Zealand	Maintenance dialysis Geographic isolation	“Water quality... We have had a patient who wanted to do home hemodialysis and we were looking [between remote systems] trying to supply the water to the point where we couldn’t do it.” [nurse]
Remote-dwelling patient (Indigenous)	Australia	Geographic isolation and cultural shock	“I could do the dialysis here [at home] I would choose to have it. It’s not that I actually want to do... I can’t do it myself, so it’s home, mom or dad, and doing seems like the best of a bad bunch for me.”
Remote-dwelling patient (Indigenous)	Australia	Transplant evaluation Cultural shock	“We were on four planes from Thursday Island to get down to Brisbane to undergo all and hoping to get down to Brisbane... Some of these patients have never been on a plane before, so there’s a really, really, a lot of anxiety that they’re being put up of their health.” [nephrologist]
Immigrant/Multiracial race	USA	Emergency dialysis Psychosocial and physical distress	“So, when they’re going through their assessments, they get to get in person. Put up their status, showing that, you may have the luxury in whether it’s paid and provided, and they had their weight questioned. That is personal, and it can be a bit embarrassing for them to be about and feel like they’re being put off or asked for the way that they’ve been missing or where their weights are, or their health situation.” [nurse]
Minoritized race	USA	Emergency dialysis Psychosocial and physical distress	“I would like to see and feel it on a scale of 1 to 10, and they want me back. They said that my potassium levels weren’t high enough... They told me to come back tomorrow, and sometimes I would not be for 2 days so that they wouldn’t send me back again [without emergency dialysis].”
Minoritized race	USA	Maintenance dialysis	“It’s intensive care. Many of my friends that I met there at the hospital have already died, and they died there at the hospital receiving emergency dialysis... and every time I go to the hospital, I feel bad.”
Remote-dwelling transplant recipient	Australia	Transplant complications Financial costs as chronic health insurance system	“My daughter... she [Bullock] when I asked them, well, why is there so many Black people on dialysis and they don’t have no not answer for me. I really don’t like that. And so then on top of that, he only spends $0 records with me... I’m like, well, I feel like that.” [nephrologist]

Table_81_1